THE FUTURE OF DESIGN

DESIGN'S FUTURE

The future of design is becoming more iterative, experimental and less hands on in a shift towards what is more thought based rather than technique based.

The future of design revolves around society which in turn revolves around humanity therefore designing for humanity is the essence of design.

“

To think like a designer requires dreaming up wild ideas, taking time to tinker and test, and being willing to fail early and often. The designer's mindset embraces empathy, optimism, iteration, creativity, and ambiguity. And most critically, design thinking keeps people at the center of every process. A human-centered designer knows that as long as you stay focused on the people you're designing for—and listen to them directly—you can arrive at optimal solutions that meet their needs.
